Football season kicks off this month and you know what that means: tailgating! Whether you're having a football party at home or heading to the stadium for some burgers and hotdogs before the game, a lot of the supplies you have in your work truck can do double duty on the weekends, too.

1. Fold-out Chair

Whether you need to rest your feet on a job site, need a place to eat your lunch or you're hanging out at the tailgate before a game, these chairs come in handy and fold up into a bag for easy transport and storage.

Listening to music can make your day more enjoyable, so pick up one of these portable radios from DeWalt that run off 12V/20V MAX battery packs and have a range of up to 100 feet. Clearly, this is your entertainment for the parking lot before the big game, too.

5. Cooler

During hot days on the job, ice drinks and keep your sandwiches chilled for your lunch break. On the weekends, your cooler can hold a few cold ones, as well as the burgers and dogs before you throw 'em on the grill.
