✖ SAN MARCOS, Calif. – Hunter announces that its popular Technician Level training courses are now available in Spanish. The online training provides basic knowledge about the Hunter product line, including simple adjustments and programming. Courses are designed for installation and maintenance professionals, specifiers and distributors.

“We developed our Spanish training courses in response to our customers’ requests. The Technician Level courses help answer the most frequently asked product questions, so irrigation professionals can provide better service to their customers,” said Phil Robisch, product technical resource manager at Hunter.

Customers can take just one course to get the information they need, or enroll in the Product Specialist Program to expand their education.

Two other training levels are offered in English:

- Hunter Specialist: in-depth knowledge on a particular product, installation and programming knowledge.
- Hunter Expert: thorough training and knowledge on a certain product category.
