Agriguard Company, LLC has announced sales and distribution expansion for its MultiGuard Protect contact nematicide. The expanded network will provide wider availability across the major nematode-prone regions of North America. Multiguard Protect is a registered contact nematicide for use on golf course greens, tees, fairways and roughs. It is also registered for use on sports fields, field grown ornamentals and non-fruit bearing trees.

Nematodes are found in many regions across North America. Agriguard offers a natural approach to protecting against harmful nematodes. With expanded distribution and warehouse locations, the broadened availability of MultiGuard Protect can help professional turfgrass managers across the United States protect their turf from damaging nematodes.
